

*The Society
for Hellenic-Iranian Studies*

Academic Committee

ELAHEH KHEIRANDISH

Biography

Dr. Elaheh Kheirandish is an Iranian Scientist. She started her Education in the University of Rhode Island, Kingston. In 1978, she achieved a Bachelor of Science and the following year she a Bachelor of Art, Chemistry and then in 1980 a Masters in Science Education. She then achieved a PhD on History of Science at Harvard University. Kheirandish has held educational appointments that started from 1986 till 2003, teaching history of philosophy and the history of science. Then in 2001, she researched the Archimedes Project, realizing the vision of an open digital research library study of long term developments in the history of mechanism. Finally in 2003, at the University of Harvard she had a five part series companion trade book and educational material titled “the light of mind” on Optics vision and the visual arts.